

Brendan McBreen is a Loan Officer at the Calabasas Hills, CA office of PNC ARCS.

Prior to joining PNC ARCS in 2007 Brendan began his career as a Sales Associate in Washington Mutual's Multi-Family Lending Group originating multifamily loans in Southern California. He then was an Associate originating conduit loans in the Real Estate Finance Group of RBS Greenwich Capital, working $1.8B in larger pools of various commercial property types (office, multifamily, movie theatre, etc).

Brendan is responsible for the origination of PNC ARCS' full range of lending programs nationwide. He speaks widely at industry functions and his comments appear frequently in trade publications. Brendan received a BA degree in History from Yale University.

PNC ARCS had consistently been one of Fannie Mae's leading DUS lenders for over a dozen years, and Brendan specializes in agency multifamily finance from the staples Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac, and FHA programs. PNC ARCS also offers access to debt and equity financing, construction loans, permanent financing, forward commitments, tax credit equity, direct bond purchase programs, mezz & bridge.

The PNC Financial Services Group, Inc. is one of the nation's largest diversified financial services organizations providing retail and business banking; specialized services for corporations and government entities, including corporate banking, real estate finance and asset-based lending; wealth management; asset management and global fund services.